Article 1. Background

“GENERAL LAMINE CISSÉ” DAYS – APRIL 17-18, 2020, DAKAR, SENEGAL TRIBUTES, REFLECTIONS AND SYNERGIES FOR PEACE AND SECURITY ON THE PATH LAID OUT BY AN EXEMPLARY MAN

April 19, 2020 will mark the first anniversary of the death of General Lamine Cissé, a personality renowned both in West Africa and internationally, for his commitment and the wide scope of the actions accomplished as part of his successive missions and functions in the pursuit of peace and security, particularly in Senegal and elsewhere in Africa.

Partners West Africa – Senegal (PWA-Senegal) is holding on April 17-18, 2020, two days of tribute and reflection on the work and values of General Lamine Cissé to honor his memory, report on his great career and disseminate his thoughts, which influenced political and military leaders and inspired practitioners and researchers involved in security sector governance, conflict management and resolution and the protection of populations.

Held in collaboration with Senegal’s Ministry of Armed Forces with the support of the Geneva Centre for Security Sector Governance (DCAF) and the Africa Center for Strategic Studies (ACSS) respectively, these events will be structured around three main components:

- 1- A recognition and testimony ceremony;
- 2- A symposium on the theme “Integrity, ethics and good governance for peace and security”.
- 3- An exhibition on General Lamine Cissé’s career.

Article 2. Contribution of Partners Network (PartnersGlobal and the two African Centers)

PartnersGlobal and Partners West Africa – Nigeria (PWA-N) will partner with Partners West Africa – Senegal (PWA-S) in holding the symposium on “Integrity, Ethics and Good Governance for Peace and Security” through the creation of two Excellence Fellowships for targeting young African women researchers (doctoral students or young doctors) and practitioners working in the field of development/civil society. The fellow will receive a grant equivalent of 1,500,000 CFA (West African franc) to fund her research project. fellowship. Please note that the theme of the research fellowships is: “Women, Peace & Security”.

This fellowship magnifies General Lamine Cissé’s commitment, through the NGO Partners West Africa – Senegal, to promoting women’s leadership, particularly “Women, Peace and Security” resolutions. General Lamine Cissé has always been interested in the people and their relationship with security stakeholders. By advocating an honest leadership, General Cissé has been the champion of strong and credible security institutions. Their legitimacy in delivering peace and stability was for him one of the major challenges for future African leaders.

Article 3. Selected Themes

This Fellowship is intended to honor the memory of General Lamine Cissé, who died on April 19, 2019. Its purpose is to support African research through the development of innovative work which focuses on issues related to “Women, Peace and Security”, a priority area for the Partners Network.

Indeed, the Security Council has recognized that women, men, boys and girls experience different circumstances in conflict situations. However, while women and girls are hard hit by the destruction of communities and are the targets of particular forms of violence, their participation, needs and priorities are given little consideration in peacebuilding activities.

The United Nations has recognized that the participation of women in peace processes is essential to the establishment and maintenance of peace in the world. Excluding women from these processes has important consequences for the way in which issues of concern to them are addressed, such as issues of violence against women, vulnerable groups and/or children, their citizenship rights, etc.

The United Nations Security Council Resolution 1325, on the roles of women in political decision-making, conflict prevention and resolution, calls on Member States to ensure the full and equal participation of women in all efforts to maintain and promote peace and security and urges all actors to increase women’s participation and to mainstream a gender perspective in all areas of peacebuilding.

This resolution is “very difficult to implement” because of the demands it places on governments, but also on civil society and development partners.

Thus, the Partners Network in Sub-Saharan Africa (PartnersGlobal, PWAS, and PWAN) decided to support two research projects on women-peace-security. One grant will be dedicated a woman in the Defense and Security Forces to support and another one to a woman practitioner involved in the development sector and from civil society. these two fellowships aim to promote the leadership and promotion of women in the sector of prevention and peaceful resolution of conflicts in Sub-Saharan Africa and in the implementation UN Resolution 1325.

While promoting innovative methodologies, the work presented should highlight the analysis of the following themes:

- For the Women in the Defense and Security Forces Fellowship:
 - An assessment of gender mainstreaming in Defense and Security Forces in Sub-Saharan Africa;
 - An assessment of the obstacles to increase women’s participation and active deployment in UN peacekeeping operations;
 - An assessment of the representation and quality of advancement of women FDS within their corps;

- Diagnosis of the Gender Sectoral Strategy implementation in Sub-Saharan Africa and in specific countries;
- For the Women in Civil Society Fellowship:
 - An assessment of African policies which associate all society stakeholders, especially women, in a way that allow them to play an important role as agents of change in the security sector;
 - A study of the factors favoring and/or hindering women’s efficient involvement in political decision-making processes, conflict prevention and resolution;
 - An analysis of initiatives integrating women for the consolidation of peace and/or the promotion of social cohesion.
 - An analysis of national and international laws and policies on Women, Peace and Security and their implications for women’s participation and representation in peacekeeping processes and spheres at the national and local levels.

Article 4. Eligibility and Selection Criteria

Only future or ongoing research projects are eligible for the Fellowship. The selection criteria applied for the project appraisal are:

1. Applicant’s capacity to carry out quality research (level of education, professional experience, published work, academic support);
2. Relevance and originality of the issue in relation to current security and gender issues;
3. Link to the themes selected for the Fellowship, as specified in Article 3;
4. Methodology and structuring of the work;
5. Analytical development of the project narrative and the planned fieldwork;
6. Interest of the results and the practical impact of contributions.

Article 5. Terms and Conditions of Submission

The Fellowships are intended for the following:

- For the First Fellowship: preferentially to women in Defense and Security Forces who wish to pursue their doctoral studies, or are enrolled in a Master’s degree, whose work focuses on African contexts and is related to “Women, Peace and Security”; or who, as part of their professional activities want to explore a field of analysis or research to inform national and institutional defense and security force policies.

- For the Second Fellowship: to African Masters or doctoral students or young researchers (who defended their doctoral thesis less than 3 years ago), whose work focuses on African contexts and/or is related to “Women, Peace and Security”; or to practitioners working in the field of development and civil society who have a research/analysis theme related to Women, Peace and Security to inform institutional and national policies.

Article 6. Amount of the Fellowship

Both Fellowships are worth three thousand US dollars (US $3,000) or one million five hundred thousand CFA francs (CFA F 1,500,000) each.

In addition to the Fellowship, the research project will be publicized by the organizers of the “GENERAL LAMINE CISSE” DAYS and the Partners Network, which is financing the prize. Selected applicants will work in collaboration with the Partners Network (PartnersGlobal, PWA-S, and PWA-N). If necessary, to support the research project, the winner could be admitted to one of the Partners Network Centers in Senegal or Nigeria for a six-month internship.

Article 7. Fellowship Panel
